Author's Notes

A BRIEF HISTORY OF POLITICAL CAMPAIGN ITEMS

Presidential political campaign items have been in use since the early 1800's. The early items include metal tokens, clothing buttons, cloth flags, and snuff boxes. Also china plates, walking canes, paper lanterns and drinking glasses were just a few of the more common items introduced into these early campaigns.

Beginning with the 1856 presidential campaigns and the advent of the advancement in photography, ferrotype and cardboard photos, both attached to metal pin backs with the images of the candidates were introduced into widespread use. These were used in all national presidential campaigns until 1896 with the introduction of the modern day celluloid campaign button.

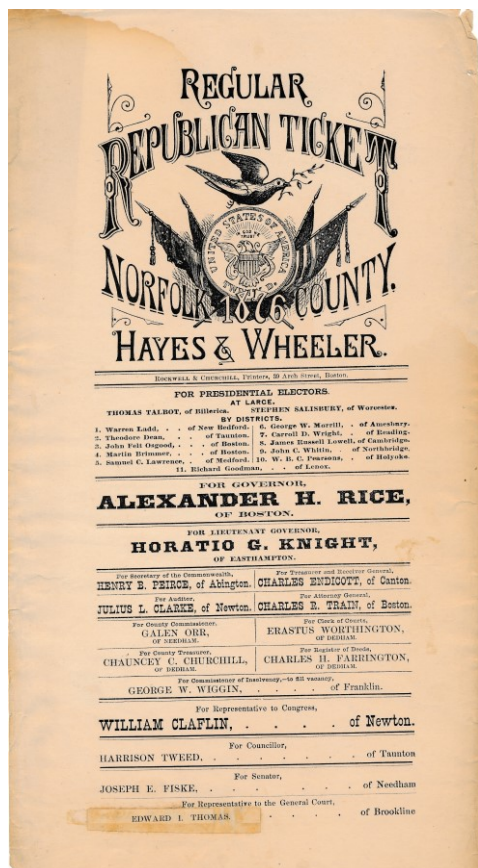

Abraham Lincoln & Hannibal Hamlin
1860 President & VP ferrotype - Republican Party

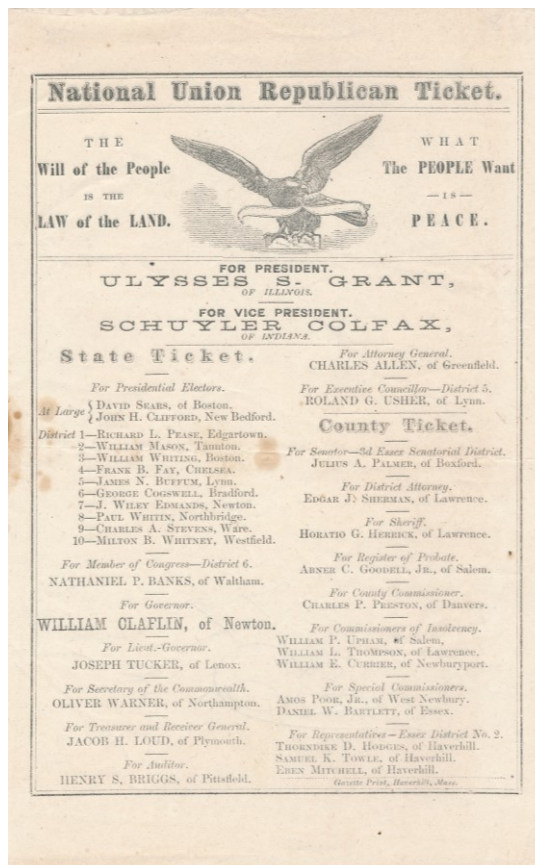

Note that all of the above items described were used only in presidential campaigns. Lesser offices such as governor, US Congress, mayor, etc. did not see any use of this type material. The first use of material to promote lower offices were paper ballots beginning around 1840. Paper ballots were usually issued by the party listing a slate of candidates on inexpensive paper for the voter to take with them to the voting booth and deposit therein casting their vote.

These were in wide distribution for presidential campaigns as early as 1824 and in some instances in later years would include governor, lieutenant governor and various other offices. As time went on paper ballots were produced for a slate of candidates by the party in individual states during non-presidential years.

Around this same period broadsides were introduced in the campaigns. These were the early forms of what later would become the campaign poster. These early broadsides were usually printed on newsprint or very inexpensive paper. They were widely distributed as the cost was minimal and pasted on the sides of buildings, nailed to trees, and generally placed wherever they could draw the attention of the voting public to the candidate.

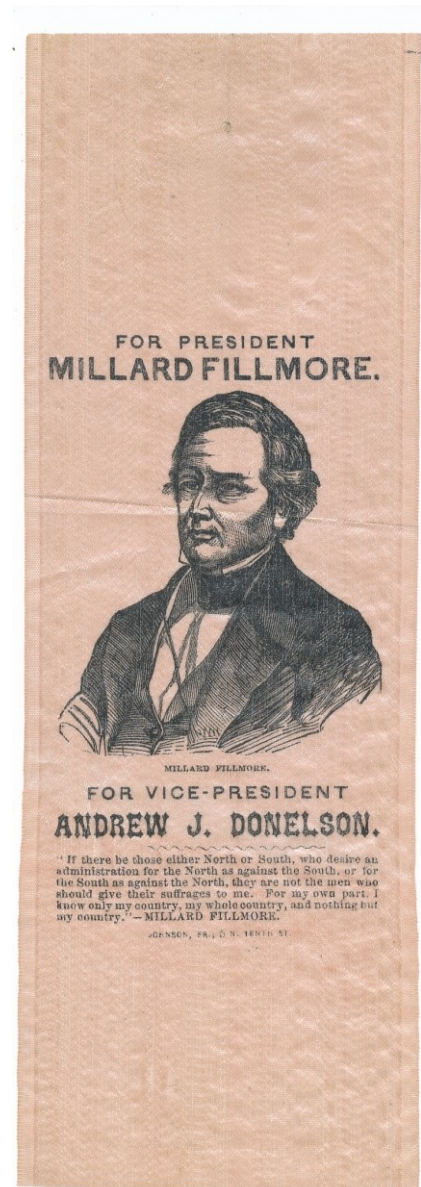

Rutherford B. Hayes & William A. Wheeler
1876 President & VP Mass. paper ballot -
Republican Party

Ulysses S. Grant & Schuler Colfax
1868 President & VP Mass. paper
ballot – Republican Party

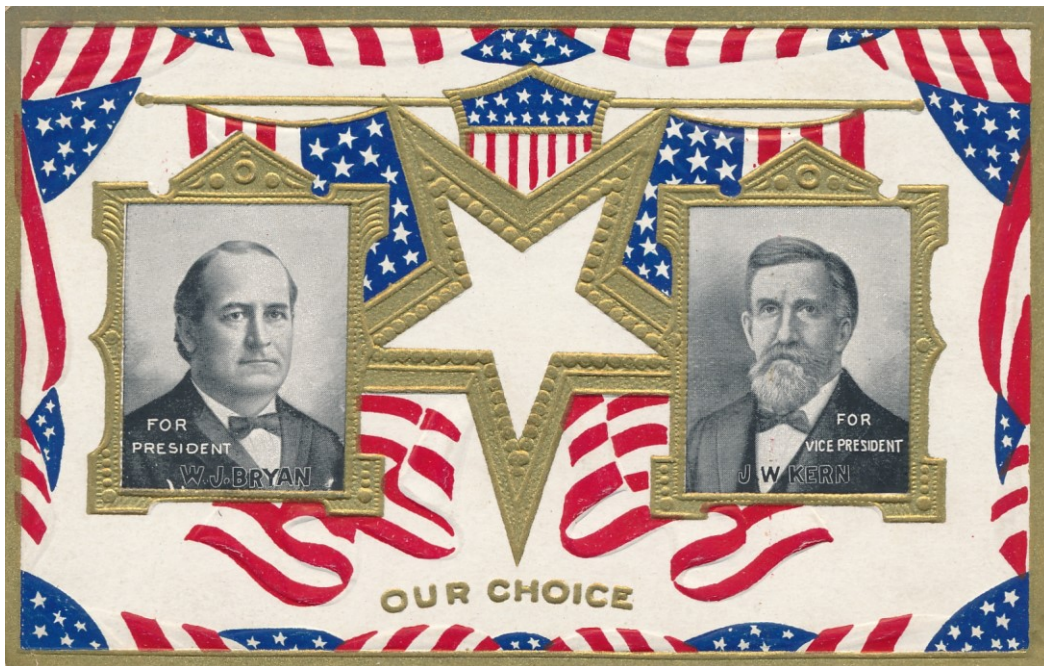

For the period from 1840 till 1895 one of the most popular forms of campaign items was the political ribbon. The early ribbons were produced for presidential campaigns but beginning around 1860 these ribbons could also include candidates running for governor on the same ribbon that promoted the presidential and vice presidential nominees of a given party. Ribbons also began appearing promoting only the gubernatorial candidate and in some instances the lieutenant governor. These early textiles could be very plain or in many instances include images of the candidate along with patriotic symbols of the country, political party and various other graphics from their state or region.

The first ribbons were almost all silk and printed in black and white. As time went on color was introduced in not only the wording and graphics but the ribbons themselves were produced in a variety of colors. Again with the advent of the campaign button in 1895 ribbons began seeing their decline. By the 1920's very few campaign ribbons were being produced.

Millard Fillmore & Andrew Donelson
1856 President & VP silk ribbon –
American (Know-Nothing) Party

Beginning in 1900 a new form of campaign item was introduced to the voting public: the political postcard. Postcards had been in use in America as early as 1873 but became very popular in 1898. Until that year the Federal Post Office was the only establishment allowed to print postcards. Once this restriction was lifted a huge outpouring of commercial postcards flooded the market. Postcards became the main form of communication between the masses as the telephone was in its infancy and just beginning to have widespread use.

William Jennings Bryan & John Kern
1908 President & VP postcard - Democratic Party

This postcard craze continued until after World War I but resulted in the largest output of political postcards and has not been duplicated since. The presidential political campaigns of 1900 through 1916 are the Golden Age for postcard production. Postcards promoting candidates of lower offices did not start to appear until around 1908. Even today most candidates running for president, governor or US Senate produce postcards and still use them as a campaign tool to reach prospective voters.

The modern day celluloid campaign button had its origins in the 1895 gubernatorial campaigns of Ohio, New Jersey, Iowa, Kentucky, Maryland and Massachusetts. These celluloid buttons were produced by Whitehead & Hoag Co of Newark, New Jersey which went on to become the predominant manufacturer of campaign buttons during this early era. The following year, 1896, was a presidential campaign year which witnessed the introduction of celluloid buttons in the campaigns of Republican William McKinley and Democrat William Jennings Bryan. Due to the inexpensive cost to produce these buttons great quantities were manufactured and introduced during this campaign.

By 1920 a new even more inexpensive style of button was introduced; the lithograph tin button. These buttons are stamped and shaped by a die from one large sheet of tin reflecting multiple copies of the same image. In essence it is paint applied to tin with no covering. Due to this process the paint is quite susceptible to scratching in shipping or handling and cannot sustain wear as easily as celluloid buttons. Also due to the production requirements a minimal order of 10,000 buttons is required therein limiting the number of orders placed by this process. Thus the celluloid button of 1895 is still the most popular type in use some 100 plus years later after their introduction.

Governor Items

MASSACHUSETTS GOVERNOR POLITICAL CAMPAIGN ITEMS

The images in this reference are chronologically by campaign date beginning with the Samuel E. Sewell paper ballot of 1846 through the Deval Patrick campaign of 2006. All items are numbered and are shown as well with their descriptions in the alphabetical index at the end of the book. The index reflects the candidate's last name, first name, party affiliation, year of election as well as the election result. W = won, GE = ran in the general election, P = ran in the primary, H = hopeful and C = participated in party convention.

Massachusetts is one of the most prolific states when it comes to political campaign items. This Massachusetts governor reference features over 460 items. A heavy emphasis is reflected in the early campaign paper ballots that were produced; over 64 through the 1887 campaign of Henry B. Lovering.

In 1895 Massachusetts was one of only a handful of states to introduce the modern day celluloid campaign button into their gubernatorial elections. Both candidates, Republican Frederick Greenhalge and Democrat George Fred Williams, issued campaign buttons produced by the Whitehead and Hoag Company of Newark, New Jersey.

Almost every type of campaign item is reflected in this reference. Ribbons, buttons both celluloid and lithograph, postcards, card stock handouts, booklets, brochures, window stickers, posters, card stock handouts, booklets, brochures, window stickers, posters, blotters, paper ballots, flashers, bumper stickers, metal lapel pins, press photos, ribbon sashes, celluloid mirrors, palm cards, etc.

WHAT
Attorney-General PILLSBURY,
 A REPUBLICAN, THINKS OF GOVERNOR RUSSELL.

(From his speech at the Norfolk Club Dinner, Sept. 24, 1892.)

"Two years ago the Democratic party of Massachusetts succeeded, after many attempts, in placing at the head of the State government the most remarkable young gentleman who has appeared in our politics in our time; a man whose qualities we must know and face; a man to whom I have been near enough to appreciate him better, perhaps, than some of you who see less of him; a man who has the most remarkable gifts for public life in some respects, and who has, beyond and above all things else, the arts of popularity, which I, within my own sphere of observation, have never seen approached."

The Republican party in its State Convention of this year found nothing to criticize in Gov. Russell's administration, and by its significant silence gave it a tacit endorsement.

Massachusetts has been accustomed to re-elect her Governor for three terms. Why should she change her custom in the case of one of the best and most popular governors whom she has ever had? (OVER.)

Extract From Letter of Acceptance.

I am in hearty sympathy with the demand for the election of United States Senators by direct vote of the people, the initiative and referendum, a permanent non-partisan tariff commission, the basing of suffrage upon intelligence, the extension of suffrage to women, the prohibition of liquor, the prohibition of opium, an equitable employee's income tax, and the prohibition of child labor.

But the greatest enemy to all other lines of reform is intoxicating liquors.

As citizens interested in and earnestly desiring the traffic, there is but one long sue. The Prohibition Party prohibition, not only of the brewery and distillery, the closing of one of the place the complete suppression of intoxicating liquors for beverage prohibition, not only of honestly enforced, without

The Hope of Our Country Lies in Democratic Success
ALFRED E. SMITH,
New Outlook Magazine, October, 1932

FOR PRESIDENT
FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT

FOR GOVERNOR
JOSEPH B. ELY

TO THE VOTERS OF SOMERVILLE:—

Next Tuesday is Election Day.
 It is your opportunity.
 From all over the country comes a great murmur of dissent and dissatisfaction with the administration of the REPUBLICAN PARTY. It has utterly failed us in a great national crisis. As Alfred E. Smith has said: "It has been proven to us by bitter experience that the present administration is unwilling and obstinately refuses to do anything of a constructive nature in the present crisis." People are fed up with promises and tired of present conditions. All over the nation they are crying for change. They are crying for DEMOCRATIC LEADERSHIP. Do not let this opportunity pass. Stand with AL SMITH and other great leaders, who irrespective of party demand a repudiation of those who have failed us in the hour of stress.
 Your opportunity is Tuesday. VOTE THE STRAIGHT DEMOCRATIC TICKET. The candidates of the Democratic Party are all pledged to a platform that cannot fail to provide a remedy.

Sincerely yours,
ROBERT J. MULDOON,
 Chairman, Democratic City Committee of Somerville.

You undoubtedly know of the outstanding record of Horace T. Cahill in his sixteen years of service to the State — as Legislator, Speaker of the House and Lieutenant Governor. I have the highest regard for his ability, character and integrity. I urge you to vote for him — and to urge your friends to vote for him — not only because on his record he deserves promotion to governor, but because Massachusetts needs him as governor in the interest of good and efficient government.

A NAVY VETERAN OF WORLD WAR II A PROVEN LEADER AND STATESMAN

As Lieutenant Governor, Sumner Whittier has been a key figure in an administration noted for great accomplishment, including construction of hundreds of miles of highways, reorganization of the Port of Boston, creation of a Department of Commerce, and overhaul of the prison system.

As a legislator, Sumner Whittier served on many committees and commissions concerned with problems vital to our state. He has fought on the floors of the House and Senate in behalf of minority groups, labor, aged, and many others and his efforts won him wide acclaim as a statesman of courage and vision.

Sumner G.

WHITTIER

Lieut. Gov. Whittier is eminently qualified for the Governorship by training, experience and ability. In 20 years of public service he has risen through the ranks of municipal, legislative and executive branches of government to the second highest post in the state. During his service as Councillor, Alderman, Representative, State Senator, and Lieutenant Governor, he has demonstrated the foresight and capacity for leadership needed in the Governor's chair. His service on numerous commissions and committees, studying the problems of state government, has given him first-hand knowledge of the needs of the state and its people.

For LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR

Charles

GIBBONS

Elected State Representative 1943, Republican Floor Leader 1949-52, 1955-56, Speaker of the House 1953-54. Member, House Committee on Rules, former member House Committee on Ways and Means. Has sponsored and supported legislation to provide jobs, encourage business activity and industrial expansion, develop State recreational programs, strengthen State educational facilities at the State University and Teachers' Colleges, give help and hope to aging citizens through low-cost housing, employment assistance and medical care, reorganize State departments for better service to the public and revise the correction laws.

US Senate Items

MASSACHUSETTS US SENATE POLITICAL CAMPAIGN ITEMS

The images in this reference are chronological by campaign date beginning with the Henry Cabot Lodge winning campaign of 1916 through the Jim Rappaport campaign of 1990. All items are numbered and shown with their descriptions in the alphabetical index at the end of the book. The index reflects the candidates' last name, first name, party affiliation, year of election as well as the election result. W = won, GE = ran in general election, P = ran in the primary, H = hopeful and SE = ran in the special election.

United States Senators prior to the 17th Amendment to the Constitution of 1912 were elected by state legislators. In most states it took passage by both the House and Senate to elect a U.S. Senator. The 17th Amendment was ratified in 1913 and changed this method to provide for popular elections by the people. Thus U.S. Senators would be elected in the same manner as the U.S. Congress has been since 1789.

Note the wording on MA-USS-1 promoting Henry Cabot Lodge for U.S. Senate; "Do not forget that you vote this year for the first time for a Senator of the United States."

Massachusetts's first U.S. Senate campaign by popular election was in 1916. Two candidates, Republican Henry Cabot Lodge and Democrat John F. Fitzgerald competed with Lodge winning the first popular election.

Almost every type of campaign item is reflected in this reference. Ribbons, buttons both celluloid and lithograph, postcards, cardstock handouts, booklets, brochures, metal lapel pins, pamphlets, stickers, posters, bumper stickers, etc.

Do not forget that you vote this year for the first time for a Senator of the United States.

64th Annual Convention, August 15, 1952 unanimously endorses Congressman John F. Kennedy for U.S. Senator.

"Not merely have you always championed the cause of working people but as a member of the House Education and Labor Committee you have played a major role in fashioning most of the social legislation that has been enacted by Congress in the last six years."

You have eloquently fought to promote and protect the economic interests of Massachusetts and the New England area which has benefited the workers and industries of this state."

Acknowledgements

A reference of this work of this scope could not be produced without the assistance of many people.

Special recognition goes to fellow Massachusetts collector Andrew Nelson of New Bedford, Massachusetts. He has assembled one of the finest collections of Massachusetts items in the hobby. Andrew proofed many of the pages in this publication for correctness. He is to be thanks for his knowledge of the Massachusetts political items.

This is the sixth state publication in this series with Illinois, Texas, California, Pennsylvania, California, and Louisiana having been published earlier. Helping me navigate the publishing world have been two Texas sisters, Sarah O’Pella and Mary O’Pella. They have been with me from the beginning with Sarah’s computer skills formatting all the pages and sending the completed book to the printer. Mary is the artist and designed the front and back covers as well as some of the layout. It has been a real treat working with both of them and a special thanks for all their input.

This book would not have been possible to publish without the assistance of the Frisco Public Library in Frisco, Texas and their printing group Trail Blazer Press. Adam Lamprecht, senior librarian, and Amy Gideon, librarian, with the Trail Blazer Press group were a pleasure to work with to bring all these books to their final publication.

About the Author

David Quintin is a lifetime collector of political campaign memorabilia. His focus for the last forty-five years has been political items used in the campaigns for United States Senators and governors for all fifty states.

He is a member of the American Political Items Collectors, APIC, and currently the Locals editor of the organizations publication, The Keynoter.

Information for the APIC is available on the organizations website at APIC.US.
